the helm. Mr. Underwood was endeavoring to get out of the steamer's way when the boom struck him and knocked him overboard. He cried out to Joyce to "bring her about," and it was not until he cried that any one knew of the accident. Mr. Joyce threw a line and a chair to the drowning man—who had evidently been somewhat stunned by the blow from the boom—but he sank almost immediately.

For a couple of hours the yacht remained in the neighborhood of the calamity and then was sailed to Alexandria, from whence the news of and sixth annual reunion of the Benevolent Order of Elks will meet in this city today for a sailed to Alexandria, from whence the news of Cours days' ression. The indications are that the Underwood's decease was telegraphed to this four days' session. The indications are that the reunion will be one of the largest ever held, and it is expected that fully 5,000 Elks will be in attendance. At midnight last night over 600 members of the fraternity had arrived. Among them were delegations from Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, Mich. The Pitteburg and Youngstown delegates arrived at 9 o'clock last night and marchod to their quarters led by a band of music. The Baltimore and Washington lodges arrived later.

At about 2:30 this morning the vacht left Alexandria and came home on the flood tide. The police boat Joe Blackburn is out of order so it cannot be used in quest for the body, but men and implements are at work. A retember of the Baltimore and Washington lodges arrived later.

The Parnellites had a band, which occasionally played various patriotic airs, interspersed with howls of derision and defiance from the enemies of Mr. Parnell. One enthusiastic Parnellite shouted that he wanted a "Haley" to come on, so that he could settle accounts with him then and there. The anti-Parnellites howled back defiance at their opponents and one individual wearing a long-tailed coat deliberately stepped up in front of the Parnellite crowd and swung the tail in their faces, crying out that there was not a Parnellite in the lot who would dare tread on it. The coat tail was seized by a dozen hands and wrenched away from the owner, and the excited Parnellites proceeded to execute a war dance on the garment, the band at the same time setting up a triumphant flourish.

This was the signal for battle. The anti-Parnellites rushed forward to rescue the coat tail. Others dashed at the band, while the main body, with shillelahs flourishing and howls of rage, intermingling with cries of pain, were soon mixed up in a confused mass, struggling, panting, bruised and bruising humanity. The whack of the shillelahs could now and then be heard above the din of the combat and occasionally stones were thrown, causing nely beard above the din of the combat and occasionally stones were thrown, causing ugly injuries, although stone throwing was rather risky, owing to friend and foe being so mixed up together. There was not much left of the band. What remained of the instruments were seized for weapons and the combatants could be seen belaboring each other with trumpets and drumsticks.

As the fight grew furious the police assembled in force and charged the mob with drawn batons. At first neither side paid any attention to the police, but kept up their fighting, and the struggle was at such close quarters that the police could hardly make any impression.'

Suddenly a voice was heard in the crowd:
"Here's Balfour's bulldogs, boys; let us give it to them."

gregated at Mount Troy, Allegheny, until last evening there were about 2,000 present, anxiously awaiting the dawn of the day upon which the healing power of Father S. G. Kollinger is said to be the strongest. The opening of Father Mollinger's new private chapel will be a feature of today's ceromonica. The edifice, erected at a cost exceeding $200,000, is one of the finest of its kind in the world. In the rear part of this chapel are kept the ascred relice. There are hundreds of them under glass covers. Today's exercises began with mass at 6 o'clock, and once every hour thereafter until 10 high mass was celebrated, Rev. Father Murphy of Holy Ghost College preaching the sermon. The chief ceremony of the occasion will be at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when Father Mollinger will give his blessing to the afflicted in his new chapel, applying the sacred relice of his patron saint, St. Anthony. Even before the break of day this morning the throng began to accound the steep sides of Hount Troy, and at early mass it was estimated that 5,000 people were present. As the day advanced the crowds increased until at the hour for soleum high mass between 5,600 and 10,600 were on the grounds currending the small edifics. There was much contributed from the merciles raye of the small critics.
